Kaiser Wilhelm Writes a Letter to Lord Russell.

NEW YORK March 10—Foreign papers of the 24th ult. contain the following letter received by Lord Russell from the German Emperor:

BERLIN Feb 5 1874.

To Dear Lord Russell: I have received your letter of January 28th with resolutions of the great meeting in London and my Ambassador's report of the proceedings. I thank you sincerely for this communication and for the accompanying expression of your personal good will. It is incumbent on me to be leader of my people in the struggle maintained through centuries past by German Emperors of earlier days against power, the domination of which has in no country of the world been compatible with the freedom and welfare of nations—a power which if victorious in our days would imperil, not in Germany alone the blessings of the reformation and liberty of conscience and the attainment of which I accept the battle thus imposed upon me in fulfillment of my high duties and with firm reliance in God, to whose help we look for victory but also in a spirit of regard for the creed of others, and evangelic forbearance which has been stamped by my forefathers on the laws and administration of my states. The latest measures of my Government do not impinge upon the form of Church or the principles of religion for their aims. They only give to independence of legislation of the country some of the guarantees long possessed by other countries, and formerly possessed by Prussia without being held by the Romish Church as the implacable with the free exercise of her religion. I rejoice at the proof afforded me by your letter that the sympathy of the people of England would not fail me in this struggle—the people of Finland to whom my people and my royal house are bound by a remembrance of many a past and historic struggle maintained in common since the days of William of Orange. I beg you to communicate this letter with my hearty thanks to the gentleman who signed the resolutions, and I remain

Yours sincerely
(Signed) WILHELM S

Spanish War News

MADRID March 10—It is reported that Gen Concedes will succeed Governor Lilaro as Captain General of Cuba. Several prominent exiles have been expelled from Madrid

PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER—It is stated by the Troy (N Y) Times of a late date that President Grant has purchased a lot in that town for $22,000. It is an entire block containing 15,000 square feet. The Times says that he is going to put up a house on it to cost $100,000 and this is to be one of the three private residences at which the President will divide his time after he quits office. He has another costly establishment at St Louis including a farm. His other at St Louis including a farm. His three places with his other property in Washington probably constitute a fortune worth a million or more, which is somewhat surprising when it is considered that he was very poor when in 1861 when he took command of the army and manning on Forts Henry and Donelson. By comparison with their Presidents of the United States this one has been most fortunate in his pecuniary affairs. Jefferson, perhaps the most extravagant man in his personal and family expenditures, died poor, though he was rich when he came into office. The Adamses were a thrifty stock, but they did not retire the richer by being Presidents. Monroe died very poor; and nearly all of the rest of them went out of office much richer than they came in

The following dispatch dated Washington 2nd inst., is taken from an exchange

Clayton has received a paper signed by all the bankers, and about 300 prominent merchants of San Francisco favoring in strong terms, the reappointment of Stone as Postmaster, whom they commend as an efficient and acceptable officer."

CARSON March 10—A shooting affray occurred here about 6 30 this evening between Ed J Parkinson, son of the proprietor of the Daily Tribune, and D R Sessions, local reporter of the Daily Appeal resulting in the probable fatal wounding of Parkinson, who is shot in the groin. Sessions is slightly wounded in the left hand. The trouble grew out of an article which appeared in the Daily Appeal of Saturday morning in regard to the leniency of the District Judge in sentencing some prisoners who had been convicted of grand larceny. The article was commented upon in the Tribune of Saturday evening as being indecent and vulgar. The Appeal of Saturday vindicated its course and referred to Parkinson Sr in language not very complimentary. Sunday morning Parkinson Sr met Sessions and asked him if he was the writer of the several offensive articles, Sessions replying in the affirmative Parkinson called him a puppy when Sessions struck him in the face. Parkinson then drew his revolver and they were separated by friends. Parkinson Jr, then took up the quarrel on behalf of his father, and in a card in this evening's Tribune refers to Sessions as a low dirty mean, contemptible cur too cowardly to meet one near his own age but pup enough to strike a man who has seen the frost of seventy winters. This evening Sessions and a friend were walking in the neighborhood of the Tribune office when Parkinson came in sight and was called a very foul name by Sessions. Firing commenced immediately. Parkinson Jr fired five shots were exchanged. Sessions was arrested and released on $10 000 bail

TWO HEARTS THAT DID NOT BEAT AS ONE

THE END OF THE INQUEST OVER THE ORIENTAL NON-TROTTER—THE HEARTS OF THE TWINS.

There is nothing remaining now to investigate save the peculiar position of the hearts. The livers of the twain were upon opposite sides and had no close connection. By the natural law of homologous union the position of the heart are the same. Their apexes incline towards each other but unlike the livers they could never have been one and the same or of course both would have died in the same hour. The heart of Eng is on the right side and the heart of Chang is upon the left hence that of one is strangely and abnormally placed. Fluid injected into the heart of one failed to find its way to the other as was the case when the livers located near the bond of union were originated upon. This is the last fact which establishes the individuality of each. In his their sympathies passions emotions inclinations and personal habits were decidedly and sadly estranged and this circumstance alone without any keen anatomical scrutiny would have shown the individuality of their hearts. And in the Two individuals brought from diff rent extremes of the world could have passed through the number of years allotted to the twins with less disagreement and conflict than these two unconscious unsympathetic children lived constantly to bear each others burden and complaints

THE DEAD BODIES TO BE EXHIBITED

There is no further need of denying what has already been indirectly hinted at—namely that from the time the twins passed from under the knife they became the common property of the country and the world. When the last curious scrutiny of science shall have been satisfied and when one soon no more the columns of the daily papers to learn the anxious secret of their union the two in public halls and theaters will be exposed to view and as the living journeyed from place to place so will the dead father and mother be reclaimed. The strict and stringent contract with the family which known the high value of such curiosities as dead ones stage the autopsy has been arrested on with that intent. The sympathy and somewhat the culture of the position of the oldest daughter shall be and results at this and the vote of the other but two family out against it. In the wish of the many I believe it applies for the sake of gain seem to be better natured and on the whole the States to will appear to the world nothing leaving heathen souls—strange freak of nature—but as full and tarry corpses corpse incident interesting only because of the sensation of a few and weary post mortem

THE MARYLAND STATE GRANGE

The Maryland State Grange met in this city to-day and state officers from 1 east of 52 subordinate granges were present. The Master delivered the address congratulating the Order upon its rapid growth. Since the last meeting, he says, there are over 2000 members in the State. He gave a history of the progress of the National Grange lately in session at St. Louis. The Standing Committees were appointed by the Master. The evening session was devoted to the secret work of the Order. The Grange will probably be in session the remainder of the week.

LETTER FROM A TAX PAYER

HIS VIEWS TO THE OREGONIAN UPON THE PRESENT AND THE NEXT BIENNIAL LEGISLATURE—THE DESPERATE NEED OF ECONOMY—REFORM AND NOT RETRENCHMENT—THE COMMON HOME TAX

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

While the good people of this county feel common with the whole State are alarmed at the enormously high taxes and other corruption not only in our own county and State but throughout the United State and are seeking to realize that our political fabric is rotten to the very core they are more directly concerned about the affairs of this county. Their interest is of more immediate and pecuniary importance to them. And although many have only to look to their pockets to feel the taxation. It is my self to be the highest duty of the American citizen to appreciate this. While many plans have lately presented none have promised deliverance from the accursed burden at least nothing short of legislative enactments, which will not reach until the current year.

Now, in consideration of these circumstances I am led to offer the following propositions though I have never heretofore either directly or indirectly, asked or the people an office.

I will if elected to the office of Assessor perform the duties pertaining to the same for one thousand dollars ($1 000) in gold coin and will return all the poll tax collected by me to the Treasurer, and will not make any returns of said tax in depreciated County Orders but in coin. I will not do all of the assessing while sitting in my office, but will see all of the real property which I assess in order that I may assess its value understandingly. And further I shall do my duty regardless of the spy of the Equalization Board. I will not take bolts of flannel from wholesale dealers for my family wear or shirts clothes etc from retail dealers in order that their stocks may not be assessed too high. Neither will I assess the property of those who vote against me 6 one tenth its value in order to secure their votes at the next election. The amount received last year by the Assessor of this county from his office under various fees was $2 450. Accept my proposition and save to the county $1 450.

Or if elected to the office of County Clerk I will perform all the duties pertaining to that office and pay all my deputies for the same at $4 000. It now costs the County $1 000. And I will give ample security for the fulfillment of these promises. I make this offer knowing, there are many able and honest accountants in this city working for from $900 to $1,200 per year.

If elected to the office of Sheriff I will faithfully perform the duties of that office for $2 000 and $1 800 for the pay of two deputies. I will make no effort to have the pay of another raised and will agree to board the prisoners at the St Charles Hotel or any other first-class house, for less than it now costs the county. It would be difficult to estimate correctly how much would be saved to the Tax payers by this arrangement but we may safely say $11 000.

Or, I will serve the county as Treasurer for the usual pay which I believe to be about right.

Or I will accept one of the most responsible offices in the county to which is attached neither honor or pay and will perform to the best of my ability the duties thereunto pertaining. I will not act merely as a medium by which rogues may enter the treasury. I mean the office of County Commissioner. No tax payer now doubts that many leakages through this office might be checked.

As to the County Judgeship I decline making an offer as that requires more dignity than I can assume.

But if the people prefer that I serve them in the State Legislature I will make an effort to have the pay of legislators increased so that they will not be compelled to accept bribes in order to get money to pay their landlords with. I will take no bribes from steamboat companies, lock companies, wagon road companies railroad companies swamp land grabs or from any of the leeches that attempt to fasten themselves upon the people. I will endeavor to have the usury law abolished the road law amended, the school law so amended that all the districts schools shall be supported by a tax collected by the sheriff when collecting other taxes and drawn monthly by each district. I will endeavor to attach duties to the office of Justice of the Peace that it may become an office of honor rather than of burlesque. I will favor the appropriation of a reasonable amount of money for the encouragement of immigration to this state. I will favor all legitimate aid and encouragement to the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad and all other internal improvements whereby the interests of the whole people may be promoted and I will endeavor to make a slight alteration in the police affairs of Portland. I will also endeavor to have a law enacted requiring the assessors of every county to assess the property at its cash value.

It will be apparent to the dullest mind that I cannot afford to spend $5 000 or $6 000 to secure my election to any of these offices and cannot buy up any saloons to secure votes. But the idea of a man being elected to office by the honest votes of the people has become so antiquated that I almost despair of getting an office.

A TAX-PAYER.

REPENTANT IMPUDENCE—A prominent gentlemen of the legal profession was standing in front of the City Hall, this afternoon examining the contents of a letter he had just received, having reference presumably, to some land matter in litigation when his reflections were suddenly interrupted with the suggestion:

That hin I ain't worth two dollars to the acre I had a pitch in there and counted a first rate crop of ball frogs. The legal gentleman turned his eyes, and observed a tall cadaverous gaunt looking individual peering over his shoulder at the open letter. For a moment he was too impressed by the audacious impudence of the stranger to reply but finally recovered himself, with the exclamation: This client pupp—"S" reported the stranger that's about the measure I'll take of the fellow that wanted to put title to that pitch of land I did hint that he might be—as I spoke the stranger passed along, averting his gaze furtively at the leather with the air of one who had just been awed by brazen effrontery without changing a cent.—Salem Statesman.

A MORTGAGING BUSINESS—Sir Edward Thornton the British Minister at Washington has been rapidly endowed. Some power the gift has given him of seeing himself as others see him. A Congressman declares inviting the attention of a friend in the gallery to Edward sent a note by a page saying: That old chap with the mutton chop whiskers sitting in the diplomatic gallery is Thornton. The messenger had a confused idea of his errand and looking about for the right man to McCulloch observed with surprise the delivery of the note to the minister himself. Blushing, he rushed up to the head of the blundering page the statesman inured of the minister half expecting to be knocked down, he said: Take that back to the good man who sent it and say that the description is very true.

HAMILTON LATHAM—Renewed application has been made to the Senate Committee on Patents for the extension of the Hanks Illinois harvester patent. A bill introduced by Mr Logan for the relief of the heir of Jonathan Haines having this object in view is now before the Committee. Similar applications for the extension of this patent have been twice rejected in former Congresses, and numerous remonstrances against any extension of it have been received this session from farmers in all parts of the country.—Wash Special.

THE PRESIDENT'S SALARY

MR BAYS REPLY TO MR WILSON

From the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Mar 4th inst.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Washington D C March 3d 1874

Mr Speaker: I rise to a question of privilege. I read in the Tribune yesterday morning a letter addressed to me calling my attention to the unconstitutionality of the act increasing the salary of the President during the term for which he was elected. I have given the subject careful consideration and am free to say that I do not think the act is unconstitutional. I have always been of the opinion that the President elected during the term for which the salary was increased was entitled to the increased salary. I have based my opinion upon the ground that the increase of salary was a contract between the United States and the President elected during the term for which the salary was increased, and that the President elected during that term was entitled to the salary of the office during the term for which he was elected. I have also been of the opinion

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING MARCH 11 1874

CLOSING AT THE GRANGES

It would be amusing and instructive perhaps to see the political managers of both parties in the United States assemble to devise a method for the Grange. The machinery would doubtless be a curiosity of literature and of art—the very highest manifestation of that first principle upon which is upreared the stupendous structures of most political platforms nowadays—how not to do it. The formation of the first Grange was the birthday of an epoch in the social and political history of the American Union as clearly defined and as distinct from the epoch which preceded it as was the beginning of the great rebellion. We had long been dealing with the blights of Man—the time had now come when the Rights of Man were to be considered. Naturally the political manipulators who have so long controlled that element in American politics which can best afford to be independent of all control did not take kindly to the new situation. The science of government had not been recognized very recently. The people had been manipulated by artful dodgers. Great political transformations were wrought by a slight turn of the wrist. Suddenly arose these herds of voting automata with a single inspiration.

Tell us how this thing is done. As we have said the managers were somewhat startled. It was the ghost of '76 which had spoken. They were startled some in Iowa and Indiana and before they could recover their wits the Grangers had captured one or two Legislatures and several offices of profit and trust.

In the Eastern States a great many of the politicians are praying for the speedy death of the Granges. We have recently noticed a growing uneasiness among several of our exchanges. They are beginning to cast the omens, and in almost every instance the quick dissolution of the farmers' order is predicted. The Troy (N. Y.) Times, in a labored article, full of a spirit of hostility to the Grange movement declares that it has nearly run its course and will soon be given over to destruction. From the reasons given it is clearly apparent that the wish is father to the thought. The Times finds the first symptom of dissolution in the secret character of the order of Patrons of Husbandry. The second means of destruction is found in the demand for the regulation of railroad freights and fares by Congressional enactment. It argues that neither the Democratic nor the Republican party dare promulgate that doctrine, that the Grangers will be forced, in the end, to take separate action on their own responsibility, and that they will fail without engrafting their principles upon the policy of the Government. And the Times concludes: "The germs of disorganization are already planted and have begun to germinate. They will not be slow to bring forth fruit."

Others among these croakers find that the defection of the Boston Grange and its sympathizers is to be the death of the parent Order. Already, they say, an Independent Order has arisen in Massachusetts and New York, and a National Council is to be organized at Springfield, Illinois—two orders having the same principles and similar internal machinery cannot long exist together—both must fall. This is the shabbiest of reasoning. The National Grange treated the Boston Grange quite properly. The latter, under the constitution of the Order could have no rightful claim to representation in its councils. And it is by no means impossible for two distinct national orders to live and thrive. Nay, we are disposed to believe it would be healthful to the Patrons of Husbandry. It might with just as much show of reason be argued that the sovereigns of Industry (a trades organization) could not live peaceably with the Patrons of Husbandry as to argue that the latter would be killed off by a society composed, in its present state, mainly of Boston produce dealers and commission merchants. And the answer to the Times will be found in the Declaration of Purposes adopted at St. Louis. Therein it is stated that no one by becoming a Patron of Husbandry gives up that inalienable right and duty which belongs to every American citizen, to take a proper interest in the politics of his country;" and, further, "it is reserved by every Patron, as the right of a freeman to affiliate with any party that will best carry out his principles." The Times must have forgotten that Congress has, by divers expressions on the McCrary Bill given tacit recognition to the vertebrate line which that paper declares will be the ruin of the Grange movement.

These croakers are doomed to disappointment. The Grange will live. It is growing in strength and compactness day by day, and we are convinced that there is no disposition on the part of its founders to suffer it to die in the midst of entangling alliances with the corrupt powers which it is its mission to destroy.

THE UGLY KIOWAS

When Governor Davis, of Texas, was overpersuaded to take Santanta and Big Tree, the Kiowa murderers to Fort Sill, the imprisoned chieftains swore by the great horn spoon that hereafter they would restrain their natural desire for the blood of solitary teamsters and defenseless families. The council at Fort Sill was invested with a good deal of sanctity by the newspaper correspondent and the solemn promises on the strength of which Santanta and Big Tree were escorted to their tribes (who had sent a runner then pelting for a brief day's sweet welcome back their red hand of heroes) were registered in the big book kept by Commissioner Smith. Since then the Kiowas have not killed more than fifteen whites. Indeed the number of their victims was so far below the average that the members of the Commission began to gratulate and congratulate. But five or six weeks ago the son of Lone Wolf, a noble chief of the Kiowa tribe, went over the Texas frontier on a bit of fun and one day while he was cutting off some of his antics, he was killed. Since that time Lone Wolf has been vowing vengeance and his vows have been sent over the wires with perpetual regularity.

Our morning dispatches state that the Knowls are at their old tricks. The curling incense of the calumet has failed into thin air, and with it the noble red man's pledge has also dissolved into nothingness. We shall be greatly mistaken if it does not appear that Satanta and the treacherous Big Tree are engaged in this raid. If they are at the next council the wigwam shall stretch the unavailing hemp.

FITZ JOHN PORTER'S CASE

Gen. Fitz John Porter was formally cashiered and dismissed from the Union service January 22 1863. Since that time he has kept quite shady and except that on one or two occasions he attempted to enlist public sympathy in his behalf nothing has been heard of him. The dishonored soldier can not rest easy under the stigma branded upon his good name and for a year or more he has been laboring to secure a substantial reversal of the sentence passed upon him in 1863. His efforts are supported by influential political and personal friends, but thus far the attempt to obtain a court of inquiry to review the facts as now presented have failed with the President. In support of the petition a number of letters from distinguished army officers, in favor of Gen. Porter are produced. Conspicuous among these is correspondence from Gen. Geo. H. Thomas, in which that officer unqualifiedly endorses the appeal and asserts his belief in its justice. We have already published the letter of Montgomery Blair, who was a member of the Cabinet at the time of Gen. Porter's disgrace.

There are two sides of course and Porter's opponents (whether they are military or civilian, does not clearly appear) are busily engaged in creating adverse public opinion. In the Senate Feb. 20th Mr. Chandler introduced a joint resolution relieving the members of the Court before which General Porter was tried from the obligations of the oath not to disclose the vote or opinion of any member. The object is to produce a statement from certain members of the court that they were in favor of having Porter shot as a traitor in lieu of a simple dismissal from the service. Gen. Porter feels grateful to Senator Cameron that he offers no objection to the resolution because it will give some of his judges a chance to "change their opinions" and to join in his appeal. No action has yet been taken on the resolution. If Gen. Porter is in possession of evidence which will entitle him to a vindication and honorable reinstatement in the service, he should be allowed an opportunity to present it. A just regard for a reputation that has been tarnished by a sentence which is far from being indubitably equitable would seem to indicate Gen. Porter's right to a rehearing.

The removal of Postmaster Stone of San Francisco, and the appointment of Coey is only a repetition of the Simmons affair. Gen. Butler wanted Simmons, the Boston Board of Trade and thousands of private citizens didn't and opposed him with telegram and dispatch. And in the Senate Mr. Wadleigh a strong Republican, told them the confirmation of Simmons would do incalculable injury to the Republican party in New Hampshire in the campaign then pending. Simmons was nominated and confirmed. Senator Sargent wanted to see Jas. B. Coey appointed Postmaster of San Francisco. The San Francisco merchants and thousands of private citizens protested against the removal of a faithful officer to make room for a railroad tool. Coey has been confirmed. The Boston Board of Trade and the people of San Francisco ought to have known better. They should have had no police to enforce against the will of the arch corruptionist and the railroad Senator. But it is none of our fight. We turn from the growling Republicans in New England and in California to gaze with complacency upon the beautiful workings of Civil Service in Oregon. Here all is peace. There is not a Federal office holder in the State (we except the country postmasters) who is not the subject of most tender solicitude. And this is not confined to their bondsmen.

Treasury Agent Jayne seems to be in a corner. The investigations by Mr. Dawes' committee are unpleasant to him and he seems to make a wry face whenever they present a draft on his fund of information concerning his doings. It is an ugly subject. A very rotten system has been exposed to the public gaze and the average American has increased facilities for studying the methods by which the office holders of this day and generation contrive to amass colossal fortunes in a very short space of time. The country is looking to Mr. Dawes with intense anxiety. There is an earnest desire that he at all not stop in his courageous efforts at the reform of abuses in our civil service until he has probed to the bottom. This is his opportunity. He will do well to improve it by continuing fearlessly in his present course.

Poor Kansas. It is the treasurer—Hayes this time. He has irrigated away up in the thousand, and the Committee on State Officers will report a resolution recommending his impeachment. says a Topeka dispatch. And it is said too that "gross irregularities" have been detected in the management of the Insane Commissioner. In short the Treasurer has misappropriated the funds of his department. The irregularities in his accounts declared their intent on to bring suits against members of the Legislature for libel. The Legislature has investigated the matter and has

CITY.

INSANE CHINAWOMAN —Yesterday afternoon a Chinese courtezan came to the Police headquarters and by her actions seemed to seek the protection of the officers She said but very little and when questions were asked her she maintained a sullen silence An interpreter was sent for but he refused to hold any communication with her She hung her head all the time and kept tapping vacantly at the floor while her bony and skeleton like fingers were constantly employed in picking a piece of paper into small fragments Whenever the Chief asked the poor creature a question on the 0 s response it would elicit was the stereotyped mean the After remaining about the jail for over an hour the Chief sent word for some of her friends to come and take her away Two Chinese who claimed to have authority to shew woman shortly made their appearance at the jail They reasoned and expostulated with the woman and endeavored to persuade her to go home with them She refused to do so and finding that she would no leave by gentle means Mr Lapsley told them to take her out by force This they did notwithstanding the woman resisted to the extent of her strength Finding at length that she was compelled to leave the building she walked away without further resistance These Chinamen told the Chief that the woman was a slave latterly and the demented appearance of the poor creature fully justified that conclusion We learn up addit on that several months ago the woman had necumulated about $700—the wages of infamy—and she intended to go back to China with that sum and spend the remainder of her days She gave the money into the hands of a Cantonaman who claimed to be her friend for safe keeping But he proved to be a false friend and gambled away every cent of the money The loss of that sum it is said so preyed upon the woman s mind that she has gone partially insane from brooding over it Appearances would strongly indicate that the pitiable looking being will soon have to be sent to the Asylum unless she should become mentally restored

UNION PRAYER MEETING —Yesterday afternoon, at 2 o clock a large number of ladies assembled at the First Baptist Church for the purpose of holding a Union Temperance Prayer Meeting Although not present we learn that over fifty ladies from the various denominations were in attendance and that a very profitable season of prayer was experienced In the evening a general prayer meeting was held at the Taylor Street Church presided over by Rev A F Medbury The basement of the large building was thronged The meeting opened with singing followed with prayer offered by Rev J D Eaton Singing and prayer followed after which Mr Medbury offered some very appropriate remarks urging all present to enter into the great crusade against the cause of intemperance earnestly and prayerfully He was followed by Dr Atkinson who made a forcible appeal in behalf of the great cause An invitat on was then extended to all present to state their experiences and to offer suggestions and words of encouragement This opportunity was embraced by a number of persons present and many earnest advocates of the cause of temperance and religion bore willing testimony to its power These exercises were interspersed with reading portions of the Scripture, prayer and singing Throughout the evening a spirit of earnestness devotion and enthusiasm characterized the meeting A profitable season of prayer was experienced, and every indication is calculated to encourage the advocates and champions of temperance peace, order and sobriety This afternoon there will be a prayer meeting held at the Taylor street M E Church by the ladies, commencing at 1 o clock. BODY FOUND —Intelligence was brought to the city yesterday morning by a boy named Quigley that the body of an unknown man had been found near the head of Sauvie s Island The boy state to Coroner Dryer that while Mr C W Barrage was out surveying he suddenly came on the body, which was lying near the waters edge A pistol, it is said was found lying on the ground near the remains, which would indicate that the person had either accidentally or intentionally taken his life Coroner Dryer sent a letter to Mr Barrage and another gentleman requesting them to procure the services of the nearest Justice of the Peace and have that officer hold the inquest should they deem it necessary All papers or effects found on the person of the deceased were ordered to be forwarded to him (Dryer) also that the remains should be buried at the county's expense. Full particulars will probably be learned to-day

SHOT AT BY MISTAKE —The evening telegram says the following The people in what is known as the Rooster Rock settlement have always been notorious for the neighborhood jars which are constantly finding their way into court for adjudication and as a consequence bad blood exists between certain settlers Mr Wesley VanSchuyver informs us that while out feeding his stock the other night with a lantern he heard a rifle shot which passed so close to his person as to fully satisfy him that it was fired for the purpose of terrifying him to such a degree as would compel him to leave the neighborhood Being an old man, however he is somewhat used to such noises and while they may cause him a little chagrin at the time they do not worry him

DAMAGES AWARDED —A suit has just been tried some time ago in the Circuit Court by Mr Liebenstein against A Burchard This suit was for the recovery of damages alleged to have been sustained by the plaintiff to the action in the modest sum of $10 000 Some months ago Liebenstein was arrested on complaint of the defendant charged with the larceny of a pistol For this indignity the plaintiff claimed to have sustained great damage to his business, and his reputation had also been seriously impaired thereby On Monday, the trial came off. After several hours' deliberation the jury return d a verdict of $100 in favor of the plaintiff

Poets may sing about the beauties of being rocked in the cradle of the deep but the average landsubber don't take much of that kind of beauty in his

WILLIAM TELL —William O Reilly the noted fisticuff and bully of on several occasions met with very rough usage at the hands of the M P s of this city as appears at his old tricks again This renowned character is at present enjoying the retirements of San Francisco The Bulletin of a late date has this choice morsel William O Reilly, the pugilistic bully who raised a disturbance on a Fourth street car on Saturday night and received a severe clubbing from the police suffered the additional penalty of a fine of $60

DISASTROUS FIRE IN BOSTON —At 10 o clock this morning says a Boston dispatch of March 4th a fire broke out in the freight house of the Eastern railroad It is supposed to have originated in one of the cars near the building by the explosion of a carboy of vitriol In an almost incredibly short time after the fire was discovered the entire building was in flames, producing an intense heat The depot is a building 600 feet long extending from Marginal street down to the wharf The first hundred feet was wooden and contained the offices and other rooms for the managers and employees of the road The rest was built of brick and full of cars loaded with freight which was to leave to day Everything in the building was a total loss The blaze came so suddenly and fiercely that people in the building had hardly time to escape with their lives The greatest efforts are being made to save the other large freight buildings belonging to the road, adjoining the cotton and kerosene house The total loss including thirty cars is $500,000

SLAUGHTERING A SAVAGE

STEVE LOWERY THE NOTORIOUS NORTH CAROLINA OUTLAW SHOT IN COLD BLOOD BY A YOUTHFUL VIGILANCE COMMITTEE

(Correspondence of the N Y Herald)

MOSS NECK DEPOT Robeson County N C Feb 28 - Stephen Lowery the last and probably the worst of the Carolina Swamp Angels who terrorized Lumberton and the neighborhood for several years was killed at about half past 4 o clock this morning in the South Down region by the following white men all tarry residents David Hilton Jr Thomas Dutton and McNeill Patterson The scene of the tragedy is about two miles from Red Banks on the Carolina Central railway at the point where the road of Lumberton, the county seat of Robeson county and six miles from this point It was at the plantation and log cabin of the late Mr John McNair, the settler in who has repeatedly been robbed by the outlaw

The three young men I have mentioned had been out on the watch for the outlaw for several days They were certain he must appear on Sunday and that morning I myself preached a whisky camp on Mr McNairs place where there were two gallons of strong whisky and tobacco Lumberton named Hiram Lee of Lumberton county He there was quite a number of negroes and a few white men drinking and carousing together Among the number was Steve Lowery who seemed to have been imbibing quite freely The young men spread the outlaw and began to converse with him He made many boasts of what he had done and what he could do and said that he could show more gold than any other man in Robeson county

After a while the young men left and made Steve good night saying that they were going home After getting well out of the range of the camp however they made a detour and crept up to within 50 yards of the outlaw Here they remained quiet for a long time waiting for a shot but were deterred for more than an hour by the fact that there were others near him Finally they all separated, and Steve picked up a banjo and began thumming on it for the amusement of his friends One colored man found Kept near to him but the young men were determined not to lose this opportunity and gave a given signal they all three fired

There was but one report from the three guns The outlaw jumped from his seat and immediately afterward fell to the ground dead The negro who was near him had his ears slightly scratched by the shot but was enjoined to find that he too was not killed The young men then reloaded their guns and advanced to the dead body which they secured and bore away A cart was hired in the body placed on it and taken to Lumberton where it arrived this morning at about 9 o clock It was then taken to the court house and placed on a table in the sheriff's office.

Immediately there was a wild commotion in the town and the streets were soon filled with an excited crowd discussing the tragedy and all rejoicing that the last of the outlaws had been killed The body was perfectly riddled with balls and buckshot The head was perforated in several places and there were three large wounds in the heart any one of which would have proved fatal There were found on the body but very few articles among which were a bunch of keys and a copy of the Volunteer Book of Arms This latter, which is now before me as I write, as portended the night with a hole almost large enough to have been made by a minnie ball and another place the paper is torn, it is thought, by a second ball

The outlaw was armed to the teeth there being found on his person when he was killed a Henry rifle three pistols and a knife with a blade about twelve inches in length He was only about twenty eight or twenty nine years of age Like all the rest of the outlaws his earthly career has been cut short before he had reached the prime of life He is said to have been the most cowardly and at the same time the most treacherous and vindictive of them all

Rhody Lowery, the widow of the defunct chief Henry Berry Lowery was among the crowd at Lumberton to day It is said that she seemed actually rejoiced to learn that the last of the gang, had gone to his long account It is understood that Rhody wanted to marry Oxendine but that Steve had threatened to kill her if she did so There are many persistent persons who believe that Henry Berry Lowery is not yet dead it is even asserted that he has recently been seen in New York city

The rewards for the killing of Steve Lowery amount in all to $6 300 and this amount will be paid over to the three young men who killed him The dread outlaw is said to have been recently but the ghost of his former self He was formerly stout and robust but had become pale and thin of late Since the killing of Tom Lowery he has kept pretty close to the swamps but the music of a robbing and whiskey carousal was more than he could resist To his love of the article may be directly traced his death He was older than Henry Berry Lowery who was in fact the youngest of the brothers in the gang

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.

Many times we meet call upon their family physicians with dyspepsia mother with pale tattooed mother with trouble of the breast all the while with pain here and there and in fact as they all pin point to themselves and their easy going and indifferent doctor separate and distinct diseases for which he prescribes his usual potion assuming them to be such when in reality they are but symptoms caused by some uterine disorder and while the cures thus only able perhaps to palliate for a time they are ignorant of the cause and discourage their practice until large bills are run in when the suffering patients are no better in the end but probably worse for the delay treatment and other complications made and which a proper medicine directed to the cause would have entirely removed thereby insuring health and comfort and at a prolonged misery

A DAY'S FISHING

EXPERIENCE OF A SMART BOY WHO WAS ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE

From the Louisville Courier-Journal

I father called me up think morning dreadful early and because I had eaten too much supper I didn't sleep good all night I had miserable bad dreams, and I kicked the bedclothes all off sideways It was not yet daylight, and the room was darker than printer's ink It was almost darker than the heathen land I had all together forgot, as usual, to catch any matches the night before, and Christ Columbus but I was sleepy It was the time of morning when a boy would rather sleep some more than eat and I was so sleepy that it was with difficulty for me to get out of bed also I knew how severely rough it would go with me if I rolled over into sleep again so I got up first, and rubbed my eyes open afterward and then tried my best for to find my trousers and my other sock

It was a curious thing happened in our family that day and I could'nt get it in my head what they meant by getting me up so early Father seemed more kind to them I ever saw him before and was good-natured all over, and not in spots like he used to be on previous days He said that as I was a tolerable good boy yesterday I might be rewarded to go a fishing, and stay all day and if I didn't drive up the cow and saw some wood before I went, it would make no difference He said he would do it hisself by and by Well then, somehow I couldn't figure it out whether it was a joke or not, because I knew that if there was a man in town it was a good judge of bad boys my father was him Somehow I couldn't remember that I was any better yesterday than the day before, but I took his word for it, rather than argue into a fuss for I knew that to get to go a fishing was too good a thing for to lose So I swallowed up my breakfast in a hurry and went over and borrowed Ben Spunner from his mother, and we were off like the night express We went through our orchard and Blake's low meadow-land, and stopped to dig our worms close by Blake's barn They were magnificent fat worms, and not intricate to dig, because the ground was so awful rich and mellow that it stands to reason We got one of mother's new tomato cans level full, and then went on to Flint creek, and a steam-engine in the rolling mill couldn't of held us back It was that kind of a beautiful May morning when everything is hushed and silent as the church of a week day The fields and the lanes were as quiet as a stone quarry on a Sunday, and the waters of Flint creek was stiller than Catawba in bottles in a duck cellar However, we soon got to the best hole in lonesome bend, and throwed our lines in, and then fished, and fished, and fished, and it did seem to me (and it seemed so to Ben) that ages would roll before we could get a bite

It is mighty hard work for two boys to have to fish when they can't catch anything, but then it would be glorious fun if they didn't only get too tired The serious trouble was with me and Ben, that we both got dreadful weary and careless and then to make it all worse, when we had fished onward long into dinner time it came to pass that both of us had forgot to fetch along some dinner, and that was the very worst thing of the whole business; but we stuck it out till about 2 o'clock in the afternoon and then voted to give up the job We had got chuck full of fisherman's luck and was designed to quit, whether we could quit or even or not.

I suppose that when Gen Sherman got through with his march to the sea, that he was abundantly tired and desperate cross It was a arduous walk for him But, I know two boys that went on a march to Flint creek of a May morning, that were as tired as he dared be and more hungrier than his whole stalwart crowd, and when them two boys finally got to the kitchen of their homes, it was a haven of rest for them to anchor their pantloons to a chair in, and a balm of Gilead to the pit of their stomachs.

At our house the blinds were shut and the rooms nearly as dark as my bed room afore day The hired girl raised up her finger at me and said, 'Hist Henry! don't make a noise, or you will disturb your ma and the baby" I said, 'Which baby?" Then the girl told me that I had a tiny, wee brother, but he was orful sweet what there was of him Well, I know that a boy is only a boy, but then I know that a boy can be thunderstruck and I was hit a hard lick but I wasn't going to put a stop to my appetite if there was forms in the house I told the maiden to please stop combing that hair just everlastingly once, and for to pan me out what she had for to eat If it was chicken I would take chicken, and if it was only liver, I would take liver. Just so she had plenty of it, I didn't care a bad nickel if it was hominy

When I got started fair on my dinner, then I had time to think, and while I was simultaneously putting away them cold victuals, then I saw how it was that I got leave to go a fishing, and why the governor was so indulgent to do the work up that morning It was a clear forethoughted up thing on me.

It is now a long time sance me and Ben went out to Flint creek, and I am some older now, but I still belong to the Sunday school and will stick to the truth and say that if father has ever driven up the cow, or sawed a lick of wood in all that time, why, then I am a trab, and if he has said to me once since, that I could go away and stay all day, then I am a boy as is fond of my grammar for a study, which, I'll be blowed if I am, and I am glad that I have got a good chance for to say so It was one of them kind of loose days which has never dawned into me twice, and moreover never will Finally, I don't wish to say anything that will grieve my mother, but I must say this much because I can't help it Boys that want small brothers to tag them around and tell things that ain't so, are welcome to a whole hogshead full, but if I never get to go a fishing again until the last trumpet will sound, not any more brothers for me if you please JOHN GLADE

THE SIMMONS AFFAIR.

A BIT OF HISTORY THAT HAS JUST APPEARED.

The exciting contest over the Boston Collectorship was transferred to the floor of the Senate this afternoon To the entire surprise of everybody, Mr Boutwell reported adversely on the nomination of Mr Simmons A long discussion ensued, which ended in a vote of 29 to 15 against confirmation Mr Boutwell and Mr Hamlin both explained the objection of Massachusetts to the nomination The vote showed one less than a quorum present and an adjournment was carried Quite a number of Administration Senators were in the building, but they avoided any part in the controversy Mr Cameron led the Butler forces and argued strenuously for Mr Simmons but his effort was not successful The strangest speech against Simmons is said to have been made by Wadleigh of New Hampshire, who is making a good record He is about to leave to take part in the campaign in his State, and he warned the Senate that the confirmation of Simmons would have a most unfortunate effect on the Republicans there Cameron and the Southern carpet baggers burst to-night that they will carry the contention to-morrow in spite of the vote to-day Ben Butler and Congressman Hooper have been scouring the town to-night, intervieweing Administration Senators and urging the confirmation It is not impossible that the nomination may be withdrawn by the President to-morrow, now that Boutwell has gone against it In that case, Deputy Collector Briske stands a good chance of getting the position —Bath Special, Feb 26th.
